

Alcove G, Kansas Union 11:30 – 1:00 p.m. Wednesdays

The Ujamaa Brownbag is an informal forum for the Africanist community at KU and Lawrence to meet and discuss general topics related to Africa. The forum was established in the Fall of 2001 and has been successful in building a sense of community among our Africanist faculty, students, and Lawrence community members. The forum does not have a specific theme, yet it recognizes current issues related to Africa, activities on campus, Africanist scholars visiting KU, and recent visits or research made in Africa. It also offers opportunity for Africanist students at KU to present their finished or ongoing research.

- January 24, "Urban Geography Research in Tanzania: Notes from the Field," Sarah Smiley, PhD Candidate in Geography, KU
- March 28 "The Ovaherero Genocide in Namibia," Ngondi Kamatuka, Director, Educational Opportunity Programs, School of Education, KU
- April 11, "Conversation with the African Women's Student Organization at KU," Ainehi Egoro and Jennifer Farwell, KU students
- April 18, "Land Management Practices in Zanzibar," Makame Muhajir, PhD Student, Geography, KU
- April 25, "The Dynamics of Straddling Two Political Worlds: the Ghana Case," Ken Aikens, Graduate Student, Political Sciences at KU
- May 2, "The Role of the World Bank in Africa: Fostering Post-Conflict Development," Richard Ground, School of Business, KU

For more information about the Ujamaa Brownbag Series, Spring 2007, contact Khalid El-Hassan (785)864-1064, elhassan@ku.edu OR Craig Pearman (785)864-3745, cpearman@ku.edu